

Connections:

Text to Self

- connects to something in the readers life

Text to Text

- connects to something the reader has experienced in a book, online or other media

Text to World

- connects to something that is occurring in the world

Sticky Notes

- Sticky notes are convenient for learners to write out the connections that they make during reading. After reading, it is important that students discuss the connections they were making and reflect on how those connections helped them better understand what they were reading.
- The sticky note strategy is not limited to students making connections, it can also be used for students to ask questions, make predictions, visualize, summarize & synthesize or monitor their comprehension.
